

RUSS REJECT PEACE OFFER FROM KAISER

STRUGGLE OF SLAVS TO RID THEMSELVES OF GERMANS STILL MAIN FACTOR OF WAR.

ATTACK SERBIA NEXT?

Germany Intends to Strengthen Connecting Link With Turkey to Balk Plans of Entente Powers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Aug. 9.—Russia having rejected what in England was regarded as a bona fide proposal made by the German Emperor for peace, with Poland traded for Galicia, the great struggle in the east must continue, as there is no indication of an all-out general offensive by either side in the west, the struggle of the Slav races to shake themselves free of Austro-German grip remains the chief factor in the war news, with an added interest in the Dardanelles operations.

Balkan Situation Simmers.

The Gallipoli field will be closely watched because of its possible bearing on the Balkan situation, again simmering by reason of renewed entente pressure on Bulgaria and Greece. Never before has the importance of the operations in the Dardanelles been more keenly interested in Great Britain and France than now, especially as there are many indications that Germany plans to deliver her next hard blow in Serbia, in order to link up Turkey and thus check the plans of the entente allied powers.

It is increasingly manifest that Germany looks to the east for settlement of the war, and by overturning Serbia would occupy a very favorable strategic position to invade Bulgaria, or to active aid in reaching Constantinople along the main line. The expectation of such a move doubtless has brought about renewed negotiations between the entente allies and Bulgaria. The Turkish successes in recent trench warfare on the Gallipoli Peninsula although there really has been no noteworthy change in the situation so far as the public is concerned. The Austro-Germans continue to make progress both to the northeast and to the southeast of Warsaw, and the Austro-Hungarians claim to have cut two German railways which retreated after losing the Lublin-Chelm railroad.

Germans Still Gaining.

Headquarters of the Austrian army in Poland, via London, Aug. 9.—The defeat of the Russians on Sunday in the fighting on the line between Lutzk and the Vepres resulted in a large number of Russian troops fighting back of Lutzk, who fled northeast toward the Vepres at Leskowice. About 2,000 Russian troops were killed around Michow. It is estimated at this moment to determine the seriousness of a danger for this breach may prove, but they are being protected by their line of retreat by troops withdrawing from Ivanograd along the highway running parallel with the north bank of the Vepres to Lutzk. In the Russian advance, the Russians made desperate attacks at Michow. The retreat of their wing over the Vepres at Leskowice was a rout of pronounced character. It is known that the number of prisoners considerably exceeds the 6,000 mentioned in official reports.

Occupies Warsaw Suburb.

Berlin, Aug. 9.—Praga, the suburb of Warsaw, on the eastern bank of the Vistula river, has been occupied by German troops, according to the German army headquarters staff. Ignorant of Proposal.

Copenhagen, August 9.—Many persons in the city court circles have declared they know nothing regarding the peace offer alleged to have been made by the German Emperor to the Emperor of Russia.

"HONOR" CONVICTS AT JOLIET ESCAPE FROM PRISON FARM

Prisoner Sentenced for Detective's Murder and Two Others Are at Large—Dunne to Investigate.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 9.—Dave Anderson, a life convict, and two other long-term prisoners of the "honor" squad at the penitentiary are at large. It is said that Anderson considered that his promise to Warden Allen by the terms of which became one of the prisoners who were not guarded, ceased to be binding when the warden's resignation was announced. He left the prison unquestioned last night.

Anderson, who is 26 years old, was sentenced to hang for the murder of Detective Michael Callahan in Chicago seven years ago, but Governor Deussen commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. Harry Peterson, sentenced to Vandalla for twenty years, and C. E. Barlow, Bloomington, serving ten years, joined Anderson in the escape. All were employed on the "honor" farm at Lockport, near here.

ENVOY FROM BRAZIL WILL QUIT MEXICO

UNITED STATES' ONLY DIPLOMATIC REPRESENTATIVE IN MEXICO HAS BEEN WITHDRAWN.

CARRANZA IS HOSTILE

Rumored That Mexican Leader Was Preparing to Expel Brazilian Because of His Activity in Peace Negotiations.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Aug. 9.—Carranza officials here said today that the Brazilian Minister at Mexico City, the only diplomatic representative the United States government has in Mexico, has been withdrawn by his government because General Carranza was prepared to expel him from the country as he held Senor Ortega, the Guatemalan minister.

The Brazilian minister reported to the state department today that no reason had been given for the expulsion of Senor Ortega, and he himself intended to sail Wednesday from Vera Cruz on a French liner for the United States.

Carranza Opposes Conference?

It is believed here that Carranza expelled the Guatemalan minister was preparing to expel the Brazilian because of the participation of their countries in the Pan-American conference in Washington for composing Mexican affairs.

The development is a very disturbing one for the success of the Pan-American conference. Officials who were hoping Carranza would join in the peace conference with his adversaries and meet efforts of the Pan-American nations to settle the factional strife, were much disappointed.

It was said by Carranza agents that neither the Guatemalan nor Brazilian had agreed on terms with Carranza, and it had been Carranza's intention to hand the Brazilian his passports as he was again recognized Mexico City. The participation of Brazil and Guatemala in the Pan-American conference, it was said, brought Carranza's resentment to a climax. It was recalled that the dictator of Venezuela, took much the same action when offended by foreign nations pressing for settlement of affairs in his country.

State department advisers today said General Carranza was making hurried preparations to move his capital from Vera Cruz to Mexico City.

Warships for Diplomats.

American naval commanders at Vera Cruz have been ordered to place warships at the disposal of the two diplomats if they wish it. There are three gunboats in the vicinity.

Secretary Lansing said he was considering American representation in Mexico or in view of the departure of the Brazilian minister, but he did not know what would be done. He assumed, however, that American diplomatic affairs would be in a sort of state of suspension in Mexico City. The reason for the Brazilian minister's visit to the United States at this time, the secretary said, were unknown to him.

Resume Conference Wednesday.

Washington, Aug. 9.—With the conference between Secretary Lansing and the Latin-American plenipotentiaries in the Mexican situation in recess, administration officials today again turned their efforts toward perfection of a new appeal to factional leaders which will embody a plan for permanent peace and will go forward with the approval and backing of the six governments participating in the conference.

Secretary Lansing announced today the Pan-American conference on Mexican affairs would be resumed in New York City Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Biltmore Hotel. He said he did not know how prolonged the conference would be.

A tentative draft of the appeal already has been sent to President Wilson at Corbach, N. H., and it was indicated every effort will be made to have it in acceptable form when the conference is resumed in New York.

Announcement that the conference probably would be resumed on Wednesday was made by Secretary Lansing, where he yesterday conferred with Secretary McAdoo regarding the Mexican situation, although he said plans for financing the Mexican government was not considered. The principal objects of his mission, he said, were discussed with Mr. McAdoo plans for the Pan-American financial conference to be held in Buenos Aires in September.

Optimism fostered by Carranza's actions Saturday in expressing willingness to participate in a peace conference, was dampened by reports he had ordered Dr. Juan J. Ortega, Guatemalan minister at Mexico City, to leave the country.

McAdoo in New York.

New York, Aug. 9.—Wm. McAdoo went to Wall street today to discuss with bankers, it was reported, the financing of the administration's plan for rebuilding Mexico. Mr. McAdoo conferred here yesterday with Secretary of State Lansing, concerning Mexican situation and other matters.

A Race of Athletes

Surely we are becoming an athletic people. Look at the tennis courts, the golf links, the ball grounds on every side and consider how few there were ten years ago. It is a healthy sign of the times. It means greater things ahead—with stronger men and women to do the world's work. These sports have, of course, developed specialized needs in dress and equipment, but they are needs easily supplied. A glance through the advertising columns of The Gazette will nine times out of ten answer the questions of the athletic man or woman.

BIG GRAIN YIELDS THROUGHOUT STATE

Badger Farmers Will Harvest Record Crops Despite Storms Says Professor Moore.

[SPECIAL TO THIS GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., August 9.—Wisconsin will harvest record crops this fall despite the bad storms of the summer season, according to R. A. Moore of the agronomy department of the college of agriculture. The rains will make harvesting more difficult, of course, and will probably injure their quality to some extent, but the yields of barley, wheat, rye and oats throughout the state are expected to be as large as last year.

"Most of the rye, wheat and barley had already filled before the storm broke," said Professor Moore, "and so I do not apprehend that as much damage has been done as was at first suspected. With modern methods of harvesting and a little extra labor it will be possible for the farmer to cut his grain even though it may be lodged pretty badly, as it is in many instances."

The discoloration of the grain resulting from the abundance of moisture will not cause a great loss, Professor Moore believes, as most of the grain is marketed through the farm animals of the state.

"I think that when the threshing reports come in we will find that the yield of grain this year will surpass that of last year," he said. A larger acreage of clover and alfalfa has just been harvested than ever before, and the new seedlings of clover and alfalfa look exceedingly favorable as they do better in cool, moist weather than in hot weather. Corn is behind but is coming along rapidly now.

DELAY RAISING OF STEAMER EASTLAND

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Raising of the steamer Eastland, which turned over in the Chicago river July 24, with a loss of hundreds of lives, will not be attempted until next Wednesday, it was announced today. Preparations for righting the vessel were begun today when the hull was sealed. Coroner Hoffman ordered twenty coffins brought on a scow to the side of the Eastland for any bodies that may be found in the hold.

"We will close the river Wednesday morning and it will remain closed until the Eastland is raised, even though it takes a week," said Coroner Hoffman.

AMERICANS SHOOT DOWN SIX BANDITS

BAND OF FIFTEEN AMERICANS REPEL SIXTY MEXICAN BANDITS IN FIGHT ON BORDER.

RANGERS BRING RELIEF

Texas Cattlemen Arrive in Time to Save Ranchmen and Soldiers From Death—Carranza Prepares Manifesto.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Brownsville, Aug. 9.—Five Mexican bandits and one Mexican woman were killed in fighting yesterday at Norias, sixty-eight miles north of here.

For an hour, fifteen Americans, eight of them United States cavalrymen, stood off the attack of sixty Mexicans. Five of the Americans, including three soldiers, were wounded. The fifteen Americans were saved from death just as their ammunition gave out, by the arrival of seventeen Texas rangers.

Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 9.—With the expectation that United States soldiers sent to Norias ranch last night would relieve the situation caused by attack of Mexican bandits, border officials here today turned their attention to reports that 300 Mexicans had crossed the border into Hidalgo county, Texas, in small parties and were apparently making their way to a concentration point. What this portended none of the officials would venture to guess, but it was admitted unusual precautions were being taken by ranch owners and police officers to prevent outbreaks.

Details of the fight at Norias ranch, sixty miles north of Brownsville, last night, were awaited with interest. Owing to the isolated country there and the fact that the bandits cut all telephone wires from the ranch, only meager reports have been received early today. These estimated the attacking force of Mexicans as numbering from fifty to two hundred men.

Fourteen ranchmen, later reinforced by a detachment of the United States soldiers and Texas rangers, repelled all attacks of the outlaws, who left several of their number dead when finally they retreated southward.

Five of the Americans were wounded, three of them being soldiers. All passenger trains were stopped last night for fear they would be wrecked by the outlaws in passing through the affected district.

Colonel A. E. Blockson, commanding one of the Texas border patrols, today dispatched additional troops to Lyford, to Raymondville and Sebastian to strengthen the detachments already at these places.

LABOR MARKET HAS SLUMP DURING YEAR

Industrial Commission Report Shows Big Falling Off in Employment Compared With Previous Year.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 9.—The forthcoming annual report of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission will show decisively the falling off in employment during the year ending June 30, 1915, as against the previous year. It should be remembered that the year 1914 was not notable for industrial prosperity. The year 1914-15, however, exceeded its predecessor in number of men and women who wanted jobs and could not find them. In the year ending June 30, 1915 a total of 32,689 persons were referred to jobs from the state's free employment offices in Milwaukee, Superior, La Crosse and Oshkosh. In the previous year 43,101 persons were referred to jobs, showing a falling off of about 25 per cent.

The commission's work to solve the farm help problem showed definite results during the last year, 2,035 farm men having been obtained through the state offices. Farmers are showing an increasing tendency to call on the state when they need workmen.

to the amount of $75, but was not sentenced because of the absence of District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie. Renaker, it appears, was in the hospital at Mendota for cure of the drug habit, but left after a month's treatment, because he was not committed there. He wishes to be sent there for a term, and claims that his crime was all due to the terrible morphine habit.
He will be sentenced this afternoon or tomorrow morning.
Elmer Henderson, the 17 year old youth charged with drunkenness, appeared in the court, but still persisted he could not remember where he obtained the liquor. The authorities have tried several ways of learning if the minor obtained the intoxicants from a local unlicensed dealer, without results. He was released in the custody of Turnkey W. E. Wogan, and his case adjusted a week.

The Liberty bell, which was sent Pennsylvania railroad.

The car was attached to a special train, carrying the escorting city and state officers, which was in charge of the Pennsylvania railroad's representatives throughout the entire journey.
The steel gondola car on which the bell rests was equipped with especially designed springs, and stationed with electric lights which brilliantly illuminated the bell at night.

Without going into great details, let us consider the fair between Pittsburgh and Chicago (48 miles), taking conditions as a basis and then giving the parallel figures, using the rates of the Prussian state railways—baggage in both cases is supposed to be 75 pounds.

A man holding a seat in a Pullman car pays $2 for it and $10.50 railroad fare, a total of $12.50. The baggage is checked and carried free of charge. Our German cousin traveling first class would pay a railroad fare of $15.68, and for baggage $2, or a total of $17.68.

Safety First Suggestions.
From a study of accidents it has been found possible to eliminate only 30 per cent of the injuries by guarding the machinery. The other half is the direct result of carelessness by the men. A great deal can be accomplished by closely watching the actions of each new employee to see, if possible, whether or not he is inclined to be careless. Warnings such as found they should be carefully instructed and warned against the danger that may result. A large number of machine manufacturers have altered the construction of their machines to reduce to a minimum the possibilities of injury to operators. One very important factor in the elimination of injury to shop employees has been the adoption of the motor driven machinery. The special controlling features for machines have also added a great deal to their safety. The tool foreman is in a position to assist greatly in the Safety First campaign by being sure that unsafe tools are not permitted to be passed out to the workmen.

When the delicate construction of the working parts of the pneumatic motor and hammer, and the narrow margin between efficiency and inefficiency are considered, it will be found that there are no tools in the shop that receive harsher treatment. If satisfactory results are desired, efficiency must be provided for the removal of water and dirt from the air before it enters the pneumatic machines. Water can be quite successfully removed by having a suitable sized settling tank with a drain valve close to the point of operation. The most effective strainer for keeping the dirt out of the tools is that made of a double thickness of muslin cloth placed in the air line back of the tool.

There has been a great amount of money spent in making safety improvements to prevent personal injuries to employees, but this cannot be accomplished unless the co-operation of each and every employee is obtained.
The matter is not one of interest in the matter there is still need for greater co-operation. The shop should be maintained in a clean and sanitary condition, as an unhealthy atmosphere is more likely to be careless and injure himself or his fellow workman. Employees, other than those assigned to the work of applying the "safety" belt, should not be allowed to handle them, as serious accidents have occurred to those inexperienced in this work.

HOW IT IS WORKED.

The Wisconsin Efficiency Bureau lets the cat out of the bag when it comes to the question of the university appropriations now pending before the legislature for consideration.

With all due respect to the university as an educational institution, it certainly is breeding a fine lot of smooth and clever politicians who are doing their utmost to bleed the taxpayers of the state in the interest of the "tax-eaters."

The story of this last attempt to loot the state treasury is told in the following article from the Efficiency Bureau which is explicit and needs no illustration to fully explain the fine points of the game of grab all in sight.

The joint finance committee of the legislature recommended appropriations for the university carrying for operation of colleges and departments $2,628,580. This was advertised as a cut. It turned out to be an increase of $75,000, or $529,000 excluding $47,000 for apparatus.

The cut advertised was a cut from university estimates for the next two years; the actual increase is increase over expenditures of the last two years. To discover what the cut was comparison was made with what was asked for. To find out what the actual increase is comparison must be made between what was spent in the last biennium with what is allowed for expenditure in the next biennium. What was cut from estimates has no bearing on what the increase in expenditures will be over those of the last two years.

The finance committee looked at requests. The university asked for a large increase. The committee cut this estimate, apparently not knowing that it did not cut enough to prevent a large increase in expenditure during the next two years. The committee does not ask questions as to work done, whether more and better work might not be done with less money. It concerned itself with cutting down the number of departments instead of the expenditures known opportunities for greater efficiency, and saving of money.

The total enrollment in the regular course in the university in the biennium 1912-14 was an increase of 681 over the preceding biennium. The increase in cost of salaries, wages, and maintaining offices in the same time was $581,000 not including extension, agricultural institutes, summer session, and hygiene laboratory. This increase amounts to $840 for every student added. This is for three items of expense only. The advertised increase of Wisconsin students was 474 in the four years. $1,225 is added for every additional student from Wisconsin who goes to the university.

Three Wisconsin private colleges with a combined total enrollment of 827 in 1914 had a combined total income of $266,000—$250 per student.

Criminal colleges in Iowa, with an enrollment of 663, had an income of $135,000, and the University of North Dakota had $29,000 for 1,217 students.

The $75,000 increase recommended for the university for the biennium is nearly as much as is spent for operation in a year by the eight normal schools in Wisconsin with an enrollment of nearly 4,000. Oshkosh, Milwaukee, and River Falls normals have an enrollment of 1905 students. These schools spent last year $315,000 for operation.

Do the people of Wisconsin believe that the university is spending too much, enough, or too little money?

The state board of control believes that it can run the charitable and penal institutions of the state for the same amount as was expended last biennium, and at the same time take care of increased numbers. The university wants $75,000 more for an estimated increase of from 400 to 600 students a year.

The finance committee has been advertising cuts. Analysis of its recommendations shows increases over last biennium's expenditures. Recommendations have been compared with requests. Comparisons should be based on expenditures, not requests.

What does the Wisconsin taxpayers think about it? Do they want cuts or increases? Do they want more and better work with less money, or do they merely want more money on the supposition that it will get more work?

LOOKS TO FUTURE.

Judge Maxfield's sentence of twenty years in the state prison to the young car bandit, who at the point of a revolver robbed the motorman on a local street car last Wednesday night, on first thought may seem a trifle severe, but on careful consideration is a just and equitable sentence. There is an old maxim that it is best to lock the bandit up before he is stolen on than afterwards, and this is true in this case. Had the motorman resisted the overtures to stand and deliver over his property he might have been shot and killed. The young bandit was desperate, as evidenced by his pistol fight with the Madison policeman. He took the wiser course and handed over his cash and watch. Such a man as the robber is not safe at large in any community. It is for this class of criminals that we support state penitentiaries and Judge Maxfield took the wisest course when he gave him a substantial sentence as a warning to others and at the same time as a protection of the general public.

The present fall and winter will find any number of desperate characters wandering the country over. We may expect crimes of various nature to be committed. Lack of work and other conditions have brought this condition about and if the criminals are dealt with in a strong, substantial manner to start with it will tend to lessen the crime wave in the future. Justice should always be tempered with mercy and while the general public can not always read behind the pages of the criminal records and fully understand the why and wherefore for this or that contention, if we are to have an observance of the law we must see that it is enforced, and rigidly. The young criminal who is now at Waupun received his just deserts and it is to be hoped that the lesson has gone home in quarters where it will be most valuable.

FAIR WEEK.

This is Janesville fair week. Next week comes the Rock county fair at Evansville. With these two fairs coming so closely together there will be an excellent opportunity for the display of the products of the county to their best advantage. The Janesville fair promises to be far better in every respect than the initial attempt last year. Already the exhibitors are crowding the accommodations offered and if the fair continues to wax in popularity it will be only a question of time before larger grounds and more buildings will be needed to accommodate the demand for exhibitors' space. The prestige that Janesville has gained for entertaining crowds, for showing what they advertise, is showing results. In every line of exhibits and attractions from horse racing down to the display of fancy work, the exhibits and entries are the best the country can offer and it will be worth every citizen's time to visit the grounds to inspect the showing made. This is fair week and it is to be hoped the weather will remain good so that nothing will interfere with the success of the undertaking.

Motor manufacturers might do well to equip their Nineteen Sixteen cars with wheels and rudders or at least with a flexible drop center-board or so.

This summer-fur-wearing-habit of society women was not amiss this year. Lots of men adopted the winter-wearing-flannels-habit without a murmur.

Medicine Hat comes to the front with a report of balmy summer breezes all last week. Tons of sunshine and plenty of growing weather for crops. One always associated Medicine Hat with the frigid zone, not with the torrid.

Perhaps this A. B. C. peace conference idea of President Wilson is going to work, but when he has to jump around the alphabet to find a Mexican president it may be a waste of time.

Redfield has not impressed the middle west as the man for the job, nor has he shown any specimens of credentials of statesmanship one would expect from a man in his position.

Carranza wears whiskers, but there is a look of determination behind them that makes it difficult to believe he will live in one of the little unless he recovers a hundred cents on the dollar profit.

Funston had just as soon swim that Rio Grande as he did the Calceon. All he wants is the opportunity to do something after several years of inactivity.

Carranza wears whiskers, but there is a look of determination behind them that makes it difficult to believe he will live in one of the little unless he recovers a hundred cents on the dollar profit.

How about testing the stability of the canoes as well as the lake excursion season? Rock river could come in the list for such tests as the Christopher Columbus did in Chicago and nothing be amiss.

Umbrella factories can not claim their prosperity was due to war orders this year. Perhaps, however, they have been using up their surplus supply.

If we could but scrape the mold off the weather a bit and get to the silver linings of the clouds for at least a week all would be well.

Taking it all in all William Jennings does not wear side whiskers so that is some consolation if there is any.

When he appeared she would rise to meet him joyfully, and they would go together for a long walk in the park, and he would tell her of the evils of chewing gum and warn her that if she wished to keep his love she must never fall into the pernicious habit.

"No, Oscar," she would promise solemnly.

"For, as I have told you so often," he would say, "the practice of chewing gum embles the mind, makes the jaw one-sided, and leads to drink and loose living. As the secretary of the Anti-Chewing-Gum League I am in a position to know."

"Yes, Oscar," she would coo. And they would continue their walk and maybe, if she was a good girl, he would kiss her good-night. They were engaged to be married in September.

In the fall of that year a park employee went around cleaning the benches. From the under side of the bench on which Oscar's young wife had waited for him every day during their engagement period, a wasp was obliged to scrape off 345 dried gobs of chewing gum.

THAT STRANGE NEW NOTE

The Student of Ornithology Could Not Absolutely Identify the Bird.

One evening an amateur nature student, notebook in hand, penetrated the wilds of a cow pasture and paused to take advantage of the practical, although crude, knowledge of a gray-beard countryman who sat contentedly on a log.

"There is a strange bird-note this evening," she began, with sweet condescension. "I wonder—perhaps you can tell me what bird it is?"

The old man removed his pipe for an instant.

"I heard a robin, mum," he admitted, puffing away at his pipe before the last word was out of his mouth.

"Oh, no!" The student of ornithology shook her head, prettily impatient. "It is a new call, different from anything I have yet come across. Can't you hear it—now?"

Once more the old man perfunctorily removed his pipe, and both he and his questioner strained to listen. There was a bewilderment of woodland and farmyard sounds.

"There," whispered the girl, "that full, shrill note! Can't you hear it? In that direction?"

A light broke over the old man's face, and the lines of intense effort vanished from his forehead.

"Oh, that noise?" He threw back his head with a chuckle of relief. "That's a frog, mum."

The Fourth Kingdom.

"So, you see," said the teacher, finishing up her talk about the three kingdoms—Animal, Mineral and Vegetable—"everything we can think of belongs to one of these. Take the things in this room, for example. Your desks belong to the vegetable kingdom, your pens to the mineral kingdom, and little May (pointing to a rosy-cheeked little tot of six) here belongs to the animal kingdom." May was startled at first, then the big tears came to her eyes and she said: "I sink you are mistaken, teacher, 'cause my mudder said as how all little children belong to the Kingdom of Heaven."

To Avoid Colds.

A few points to remember if you would avoid taking cold—never go directly from a very warm atmosphere into very cold air. Don't jump from an overheated room into an ice-cold bed on a sleeping porch. Remove your wraps when shopping indoors on a cold day, or when visiting. Don't bundle up the throat, but don't expose the whole chest. Seventy degrees should be the highest temperature in your living rooms or offices. Don't over-exert, then expose yourself to infection in a draft or in a hot room that is probably full of disease germs. Keep your vitality at par, avoid people with bad colds, and you will probably get through the bad seasons with as more than a sniffle or so.

A sink with hot and cold water over it is a great convenience, but if this is not to be had in a country home, pumps leading from both cistern and well may be had, so that steps may be saved by not having to carry water from the outside. # WOMAN'S PAGE

SIDE TALKS BY RUTH CAMERON

KEEP COOL.
"The burden and heat of the day" is to me one of the most expressive phrases in the Bible, and especially so at this time of year. Did you ever realize, by the way, that the Bible is written entirely in imagery of a land of tropic heat? The missionaries to the Eskimos say that they have to translate the Book not only into the language of the Eskimos, but also into the imagery of their experience. What chord would "the burden and heat of the day" or "the shadow of a great rock in a weary land" stir in the heart of an Eskimo?

All of which is only by way of prelude to a few words of suggestion as to how to best bear "the burden and heat of the day" in this beautiful but trying season of the year.

Keeping Cool by Keeping Cool.
In the first place, keep cool. How silly, you say! No, not quite so silly as you think it, for I mean "keep cool" in the sense in which we say it to someone in danger.

Keep cool, that is, keep calm. Keep your nerves steady. Don't fret. Keep as serene as possible.

Hurry, worry and haste are three of the greatest nerve and tissue destroyers at any time, and especially so just now.

Shut them all out of your summer program. Say to yourself, "I won't hurry. I won't worry. And I won't even use up my precious energy in disliking people or things."

Don't argue over about the war.

Don't scold. It tires you and everyone around you.

Keep trifles in their place.

Don't Starve Yourself.
Don't think to preserve your strength by ceasing to eat. The right food eaten in moderation will give you strength to endure the heat.

If you are a housewife, don't fail to set the right food before your family. Salads, fruits, fresh vegetables, berries, nuts, milk and eggs, these are some of the foods that keep up your strength in the summer without heating us.

Don't Sit Up All Night.
Don't be tempted by the host of the summer night into sitting up two or three hours later than usual. If you do, you will be telling everybody next day that "it may not be so hot today, but it's the worst feeling day of the summer."

Take a daily bath in lukewarm or cold water.

Also bathe your head with frequent glasses of water (preferably not ice water) and remember that it also feels the heat and do not ask it to digest two or three cold egg nogs, college ices and lemon limes in the course of a hot day.

And above all keep cool—that is the best way to fit yourself to endure "the burden and heat of the day."

Glimpses of Married Life BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Roger, Olive has an exciting story to relate if she is sufficiently urged," began Jo when the strain of serving had been removed from her mind.

"She has," said Olive, "just told me a story that will make you gasp."

"Well, it's my turn now," said Olive, "I've seen two ghosts, a black one and a white one, which, color do you prefer?"

"I don't know," said Mrs. Ellison, "very attentive to me."

"Mrs. Ellison," calculated Parsons, "suspending operations to stare at me."

"Yes, I prefer to name my ghosts: it adds local color."

"I get you: go on," Parsons helped himself to more meat.

"She has had no conversation that she hides behind the shrubbery to gather scraps of it."

"Do you know that?" asked Parsons.

"I heard her, found a footprint in a powder I sifted over the grass to track her with, and saw her creep through the pasture and cross the road, up there at the corner. Wrapped in my duddies I followed her. She lost her at Jacob's corner, having to stop to quiet a dog who was bawling to eat me."

"Is this straight, goods?" Parsons looked suspicious at her, or are you trying to get a rise out of me?"

"Cross my heart and hope to die," repeated Olive gravely.

"How do you know it is Mrs. Ellison?" he asked.

"Having a mathematical mind, I put two and two together."

"Who else would be so desperately anxious to keep her from marrying the doctor?" said Jo, bursting into the conversation.

"Easy now, Jo; I've lost the scent," said her husband, raising a hand to silence her. "So she fled objections to your marriage?" he turned to Olive with his question.

"After such good exercise as I mentioned, I went straight to sleep when I got to bed the second time," continued Olive. "Something woke me suddenly. A white figure was standing in the moonlight and a hollow voice warned me I should not live to marry the doctor."

"Did you tell the doctor?"

Olive shook her head and continued: "I sprang out of bed to unmask my midnight visitor, and after we had gazed at each other some scratches and torn clothing she fled. I followed, but could find no trace of her. I walked the Mortons and Dick went out and searched in every direction, but the ghost refused to appear to him."

"Our ghost stories fit together so well we ought to go around and tell them together," remarked Parsons after a silence. Then he told Jo of the ghost's apparition. "Then we got right down to brass tacks. I'm afraid the woman has done herself mischief. The doctor must know of this."

"I don't see why she's no great loss to the community," said Jo.

"She can't be allowed to wander around alone in all weathers; it isn't decent," Parsons passed his cup for more coffee.

"I did not say anything to the doctor because it's all so distressing to him and he has had his dish so full of her. Is there no other way to prove it?"

"I'm afraid not. He must decide what it is best to do under the circumstances."

"Where do you suppose she is staying?" he asked, turning to his wife.

For reply she shook her head.

"There's his machine now," said Parsons, rising from the table. "I'll call him over and see if he has heard of the doctor's. Excuse me," and he left the table.

Heart and Home Problems BY MRS. ELIZABETH SCHMIDT

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl only fifteen years old and I have a difficult problem which I think I am too young to solve, so I thought I could help me.

My father is a very hard drinker and every night when he comes home he is drunk and starts fighting with my mother over any little thing. My mother is very frail and weak, and if my father keeps doing this very long I fear she will die. She is very nervous and lately she has become a nervous breakdown. My father strikes her and even puts her out of the house on cold rainy nights when she ought to be in bed. Please tell me something by which I can make my father come to himself again and by which I can make my mother well and happy. Thank you very much.

PEGGY.

Get advice from a charitable organization. An institution of this kind will get in persons to touch with the family and will suggest things that an outside cannot.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can you please tell me how I can have some friends? I used to have lots of girl friends, but I haven't any now. I have a sister who is very nosy and that is the reason why I haven't any girl friends. Am very lonesome, as I have nobody to go with.

LONELY.

I am sure it isn't your sister's fault that you have no friends. Try to adapt yourself to the ways of others, and learn to forget yourself. If you are genial and true you will attract friends. A change of environment would perhaps be necessary to gain new friends. If possible, join some girls' club.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Can you tell me what will take paint out of a white dress? I tried gasoline, but it did not do any good.

(2) After meeting a person at a friend's house and they say, "Well, I am glad I met you," what answer should be made?

(3) I am continually eating ground coffee and I love the taste of it. Is it injurious to the health and will it make the skin dark?

(4) Can you tell me of something that will bleach the skin and not injure it?

(5) Give me the name of the best cold cream.

(6) Give me the name of a good corn cure.

(7) How often should the hair be washed?

(8) How can I get rid of aunts? The large black kind. A READER.

(9) Turpentine should have been used instead of gasoline. It may do some good yet.

(10) "Thank you" is as good as anything and it is simple.

(11) It affects some people and not others. If you lie awake nights and are nervous, and if your skin is yellow, you better stop eating it.

(12) Put half a pint of rich milk into a porcelain kettle and bring it to a boil. Skin carefully, and add one-quarter of an ounce of strained lemon juice. Remove from the heat and pour in one-half ounce of white brandy. Bottle when cold and apply to the face at night with a soft cloth, letting the mixture stay on all night. Wipe over the face again in the morning after washing.

(13) There are many excellent cold creams and corn cures. Ask your druggist to recommend one.

(14) Once a month.

(15) Scatter powdered borax along the edges of your cupboards or wherever the ants are.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a girl friend who is sick and at a hospital and I would like to take her some flowers. I cannot afford to buy some sweet peas or nasturtiums from our garden? Certainly.

BLUE EYES.

Bathless Middle Ages.

Greece had baths for every citizen; so had Rome, but the Goths broke her aqueducts and the fanatics closed the public baths (being dirty themselves) and Rome fell and the Dark Ages set in. "A thousand years without a bath," as Michelet epitomized them.

Household Hints

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES.
To Stop Falling Hair and Promote the Growth of a Double Handful of Sage with one teaspoonful of salt and sulphur in one quart of water, (use leaf sage); strain into large bottle. Add as much quinine as you can hold on the end of a knife blade. Add to this mixture five cents' worth of bay rum, the same amount of witch hazel. Rub those scabs into the roots of the hair. If scalp is dry use a little vasoline on the scalp; the liquid will cut the grease. Give hair good brushing when dry.

Boric Acid, one of the simplest disinfectants is a valuable home remedy. Mixed with vasine it makes one of the best salves for cuts, burns, insect bites, sunburn, etc. It is used in sleeves of coats and dresses it will remove the odor of perspiration. Tired feet feel better after a hot foot bath, then dusted with the powder. Handkerchiefs and linens used by the sick should be steeped in a solution of it before being sent to laundry. A solution of it is fine to bathe the eyes, as it is cooling and removes the fever. It's good for many other things too numerous to mention.

GOOSEBERRY FOOL.
Take two pints of gooseberries and stew them in as little water as possible. You don't want to have a lot of juice or your fool will be sloppy. When they are quite soft, work them through a sieve. Make a thick custard. Let the gooseberries get nearly cold. Then stir the custard thoroughly into them. When the whole thing is perfectly cold serve it in a glass dish or in little custard cups.

Gooseberries which are just "on the turn" are much more acid than those which are quite green. If you get them when they are turning add a great deal of sugar or your fool will not be eatable.

GOOSEBERRY TRIFLE.
Use two pounds of gooseberries and stew them with six ounces of sugar and a very little water till they are tender. Cut three sponge cakes into three or four slices. Arrange them in a glass dish. Pour the hot stewed gooseberries over them. Let the fruit cool down a little, and then cover it with half a pint of thick custard. When the custard is quite cold decorate it with cherries or little bits of angelica.

You can make this kind of trifle with almost any fruit. It is very good indeed when done with apples which have been nicely flavored with lemon rind or cloves.

SUNDAY PUDDING.
You can use almost any fruit for this pudding. Gooseberries are nice by themselves, but a few strawberries later in the year. The ingredients are: Stewed fruit, sugar to taste, custard, thin slices of stale white bread.

Cut the crusts off thin slices of stale white bread and line the inside of a basin. Fit them neatly into one another, so that there are as few gaps as possible between them. Put a saucer on the top slice and a towel the fruit with plenty of sugar. While it is still quite hot pour it into the basin. Cover in the top with another slice of bread. Put a saucer on the top slice and a weight on the saucer to press down the contents of the basin. Let it stand a whole day. Then turn it out in a glass dish, and cover it with thick custard.

RED GOOSEBERRY MOLD.
This ought always to be made with red or pink fruit, for it looks bad when it is done with green. The ingredients are: One pound of gooseberries, one pint of water, sugar to taste, four ounces sage.

Soak the sage over night in cold water. Boil the gooseberries in the water with as much sugar as you require to make them nice and sweet. When they are quite soft put them through a sieve. Stir all together over the fire until the sage is dissolved. Then pour the mixture into a wet mold. Let it stand till it is set. Serve with custard.

If there is no fresh fruit to be had you can make this mold with one pound of gooseberry jam.

WOMAN WITH TATTERED FLAG AND BARE FEET REPRESENTS BELGIUM IN PAGEANT

The vast procession by which many thousands of women convinced London of their patriotic desire and demand to be permitted to help in the great national duty of war-work was picturesque with a pageantry which appealed to the imagination, to the sense of justice, and to the patriotism of all who witnessed it. And in the long lines of earnest, determined women, no figure stood out with more impressive dignity than that of "Belgium."

JOINT K. C. PICNIC AT YOST YESTERDAY

Beloit and Janesville Councils Held Annual Outing.—Beloit Takes Sport Honors.

Three hundred Knights of Columbus and their families attended the annual picnic of Carroll council of this city and St. Thomas council of Beloit at Yosts park Sunday. Many knights from other cities and towns of northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin were present.

Edward Madden, James Heffernan, Emmet Robery and Hugh M. Joyce, Jr. of this city, and G. Goodwin, Edward Nieban, C. Ramsden and H. Hills of Beloit composed the committee of arrangements, while James P. Cullen, W. T. Dooley, J. J. Dulin of Janesville, and C. Busch, A. McGovock and Dr. Conner of Beloit, composed the reception committee. Leaver's band of Beloit furnished music throughout the day.

Members of St. Thomas' council made a clean sweep in the various inter-council events. The first half game of the afternoon, between the younger men of the councils, went to Beloit by the score of 7 to 5. The older men crossed bats shortly after, and again the Line City players were victorious, 5 to 3. Beloit beef pulled strong in the tug of war and outclassed the local tuggers with the rope. In a similar event for the ladies the Beloiters were winners.

There was a long program of sports and races for the youngsters present with a big list of valuable prizes.

Genius appears to be nothing more than associative faculty of high order. High order of associative faculty belongs to the group of phenomena by individuals whose cell protoplasm has been sensitized beyond the mean degree. This sensitization is due to microbe influence, no matter whether from direct toxic impression made by bacterial products, from liberated endotoxins or from proteolytic end-result poisons.

The last word in motion photographic art comes again to the Apollo theatre on next Thursday, Gabrielle d'Annunzio, who is unquestionably Italy's foremost dramatist, and who is now fighting for his country, wrote and personally staged the photo spectacle "Cabrila." Experts in motion photography predict a new epoch with the introduction of this remarkable film, which is a historical vision of the third century, B. C., immediately after the close of the first Punic War. It has never been equaled for regal splendor and barbaric magnificence. Its cast is composed of the best known players of Rome and the ensembles, troops and armies number over seven thousand people.

d'Annunzio has taken as a basis of this story the strife between Carthage and the Romans, at the time Hannibal took command of the Carthaginian forces, and surprised his antagonists by crossing the Alps with his army. The romance of "Cabrila" is fictional, but the action and main facts historical. "Cabrila," the title part, is the principal character of the scenario. The name means "one rescued from the flames" and "Cabrila" an infant child, taken prisoner during the eruption of Mt. Aetna, is sold into slavery. The High Priest of the Temple of Moloch was the purchaser and the infant is kept with others until the time arrives for her to be sacrificed to Moloch, whom the Carthaginians worshipped as the God of Fire. She is saved by a young Roman "Fulvius" and her experiences and sensational escape with the assistance of a veritable Hercules, form the nucleus of the plot.

SMALL SAVINGS MEAN MUCH Better for a Youth to Shave Himself Than to Receive 1,000 Guineas, Says Wise Man.

A wise man said 150 years ago that it was far better for a youth to learn to shave himself than to receive a gift of one thousand guineas.

The man who shaves himself every morning saves a great deal of time and also the income of a good $1,000 bond for that day.

The man who cuts out one ten-cent cigar every day saves at least the dividend on 12 shares of railroad stock.

One less drink of ordinary whiskey a day would pay for the bread of two persons for that day.

Uncle Sam will carry a letter for you 10,000 miles for what you paid for that one Turkish cigarette you are smoking.

If you had five morning newspapers sent to your home you would grumble at your own extravagance. That single cocktail before dinner costs you more than twice as much.

Russell Sage insisted that the easiest way he knew to earn the income of a dollar for a whole year was to walk to his office once.

The Ball of Fire

By George Randolph Chester and Lillian Chester

Illustrated by C. D. Rhodes

(Copyright, 1914, by the Red Book Corporation)
There was nothing the free and entire, unincumbered wanted to know so much as that; but the C. and E. U. was doomed to disappointment in that one desire of its heart. Even as he had stumbled down the steps of the Sargent house, Allison was aware of the hidden thing he had done; aware, too, that Jim Sargent was as violent as good-natured men are apt to be. This thought, it must be said in justice to Allison, came last and went away first. It was from himself that he tried to run away, when he shot his runaway out through the park and into the north country, and, by devious roads, to a place which had come to him as if by inspiration; the Willow Club, which was only open in the summer time, and employed a feeble old caretaker in the winter. To this haven,

If You Try That Again I Shall Be Compelled to Thrash You.

bleak and cold as his own numbed soul. Allison drove in mechanical firmness, and walked around to the kitchen, where he found old Peabody smoking a cornucopia pipe, and laboriously mending a pair of breeches.

"Why, howdy, Mr. Allison?" greeted Peabody, rising, and showing up his spectacles. "It's a treat to see anybody these days. I ain't had a visitor for high on to a month. There ain't any provisions in the house, but if you'd like anything I can run over to the village and get it. I got a jug of my own, if you'd like a little snifter. How's things in the city?" and still rambling on with unanswerable questions and miscellaneous offers and club grounds information, he pattered to the corner cupboard and produced his jug, and poured out a glass of whisky.

"Thanks," said Allison, and drank the liquor mechanically. He was shuddering with the cold, but he had not noticed it until now. He glanced around the room slowly and curiously. "If he had not seen it before, I think I'll stay out here overnight," he told Peabody. "I'll occupy the office. If anyone rings the phone, don't answer."

"Yes sir," replied Peabody. "Tell me what I'll do, Mr. Allison. I'll muffle the bell. I guess I better light a fire in the office."

"Anything you like," and Allison went towards the office. At the door he turned. "You'll understand, Peabody, that I have come here to be quiet. I wish to be entirely alone, with certain important matters which I must decide. If anybody should happen to drop in, get rid of him. Do not say that I am here or have been here."

"Yes sir," replied Peabody. "I know how it is that away. I want to be by myself, often."

chair behind the flat top desk and rested his chin in his hands, and stared out of the window at the bleak and dreary landscape. Just within his range of vision was a lonely little creek, shadowed by a mournful drooping willow which had given the club its name, and in the wintry breeze it waved its long tendrils against the leaden gray sky. Allison fixed his eyes on that oddly beckoning tree and strove to think. Old Peabody came pattering in, and with many a clang and clatter built a fire in the capacious Dutch stove; with a longing glance at Allison, for he was starved with the hunger of talk, he went out again.

At dusk he once more opened the door. Allison had not moved. He still sat with his chin in his hands, looking out at that weirdly waving willow. Old Peabody thought that he must be asleep, until he tiptoed up at the side. Allison's gray eyes, unblinking, were staring straight ahead, with no expression in them. It was as if they had turned to glass.

"Excuse me, Mr. Allison. Chicken or steak? I got 'em both, one for supper and one for breakfast."

Allison turned slowly, part way towards Peabody; not entirely.

"Chicken or steak?" repeated Peabody.

"Eh? Yes. Oh, yes. Yes. The chicken?"

The fire had gone out. Peabody rebuilt it. He came in an hour later, and studied the silent man at the desk for a long minute, and then he decided an important question for himself. He brought in Allison's dinner on a tray and set it on a corner of the desk.

At eleven Peabody came in again, to see if Allison were ready to go to bed; but Allison sent him away as soon as he had fixed the fire. The tray was untouched, and out there in the dim moonlight, which peered now and then through the shifting clouds, the long-armed willow beckoned and beckoned.

Morning came, cold and gray and damp as the night had been. Allison had fallen asleep towards the dawn, sitting at his desk with his heavy head on his arms, and not even the clatter of the building of the fire roused him. At seven when Peabody came, Allison rose up with a start at the opening of the door, but before he glanced at Peabody, he looked out of the window at the willow.

"Good-morning," said Peabody, with a cheerfulness which sounded oddly in that dim, bare room. "I brought you the paper, and some fresh eggs. There was a little touch of frost this morning, but it went away about time for sun-up. How will you have your eggs? Fried, I suppose, after the steak. Seems like you don't have much appetite," and he scrutinized the untouched tray with mingled regret and resentment. Since Allison paid no attention to him, he decided on eggs fried after the steak, and started for the door.

Allison had picked up the paper mechanically. It had lain with the top part downwards, but his own picture was in the center. He turned the paper over, so that he could see the headlines.

"Peabody!" No longer the dead tones of a man in a mental stupor, a man who cannot think, but in the sharp tones of a man who can feel.

"Yes, sir." Sharp and crisp, like the snap of a whip. Allison had scared it out of him.

"Don't come in again until I call you."

"Yes, sir." Grieved this time. Darn it, wasn't he doing his best for the man!

So it had come; the time when his will was not God! A god should be omnipotent, impregnable, unassailable, absolute. He was surprised at the calmness with which he took this blow. It was the very bitterness of the hurt which left it so little painful. A man with his leg shot off suffers not one-tenth so much as a man who tears his fingernail to the quick. Moreover, there was that other big horror which had left him stupefied and numb. He had not known that in his ruthless, ness there was any place for remorse, or for terror of himself at anything he might choose to do. But there was. He entered into no ravings now, no writhings, no outcries. He realized calmly and clearly all he had done, and all which had happened to him in retribution. He saw the downfall of his stupendous scheme of worldwide conquest. He saw his fortune, to the last penny, swept away; for he had invested all that he could raise on his securities and his business and his prospects, in the preliminary expenses of the International Transportation company, bearing this portion of the financial burden himself, as part of the plan by which he meant to obtain ultimate control and command of the tremendous consolidation, and become the king among kings, with the whole world in his imperious grasp, a sway larger than that of any potentate who had ever sat upon a throne, larger than the sway of all the monarchs of earth put together, as large terrestrially as the sway of God himself! All these he saw crumbled away, fallen down around him, a wreck so complete that no shred or splinter of it was worth the picking up; saw himself disgraced and discredited, hated and ridiculed throughout the length and breadth and circumference of the very earth he had meant to rule; saw himself discarded by the strong men whom he had inveigled into this futile scheme and saw himself forced into commercial death as wolves read and devour a crippled member of their pack; last, he saw himself loathed in the one pure breast he had sought to make his own; and that was the deepest hurt of all; for now, in the bright blaze of his own conflagration, he saw that, beneath his grossness, he had loved her, after all, loved her with a love which, if he had shown it of its dress, might perhaps have won her.

Through all that day he sat at the desk, and when the night came again, he walked out of the house, and across the field, and over the tiny footbridge, under the willow tree with the still beckoning arms; and the world, his world, the world he had meant to make his own, never saw him again.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

A Matter of Conscience.

Gall stood at the rail of the Whitecap, gazing out over the dancing blue waves with troubled eyes.

"Penny for your thoughts." The fin-possibly handsome Dick Rodley had strolled up, in his blue jacket and white trousers and other nautical embellishments.

"The news in the paper," she told him. "It's so big."

Dick looked down at her critically. She was so new a Gall to him that he was puzzled, and worried, too, for he felt, rather than saw, that some trouble possessed this dearest of his friends.

"Yes, it is big news," he admitted; "big enough and startling enough to impress anyone very gravely." Then he shook his head at her. "But you mustn't worry about it, Gall. You're not responsible."

Gall turned her eyes from him and looked out over the white-edged waves again.

"It is a tremendous responsibility," she mused, whereupon Dick, as became him, violently broke the thread of thought by taking her arm and drawing her away from the rail, and walking gayly with her up to the forward shelter deck, where, shielded from the crispness of the wind, there sat, around the big table and amid a tangle of Sunday papers, Jim Sargent and Rev. Smith Boyd, Arly and Gerald Fosland, all four deep in the discussion of the one possible topic of conversation.

"Allison's explosion again," objected Dick, as Gall and he joined the group, and caught the general tenor of the thought. "I suppose the only way to escape that is to jump off the Whitecap. Gall's worse than any of you. I find she's responsible for the whole thing."

Arly and Gerald looked up quickly. "I neither said nor intimated anything of the sort," Gall reprimanded Dick, for the benefit of the Foslands, and she sat down by Arly, whereupon Dick, observing that he was much ofended, patted Gall on the shoulder, and disappeared in search of Ted.

"I'd like to hand a vote of thanks to the responsible party," laughed Jim Sargent, to whom the news meant more than Gall appreciated. "With Allison broke, Urbank of the Midcontinent succeeds to control of the A.P. and Urbank is anxious to incorporate the Towanda Valley in the system. He told me so yesterday."

The light which leaped into Gall's eyes, and the trace of color which flashed into her cheeks, were most comforting to Arly; and they exchanged a smile of great satisfaction. They clutched hands ecstatically under the corner of the table, and wanted to laugh outright. However, it would keep.

"The destruction of Mr. Allison was a feat of which any gentleman's conscience might approve," commented Gerald Fosland, who had spent some time in definitely settling with himself the ethics of that question. "The company he proposed to form was a menace to the liberty of the world and the progress of civilization."

"The destruction didn't go far enough," snapped Jim Sargent. "Clark Vance, Haverman, Grandin, Babbitt, Taylor, Chisholm; these fellows won't be touched, and they built up their monopolies by the same method Allison proposed; trickery, force and plain theft!"

"Harsh language, Uncle Jim Sargent, to use toward your respectable fellow-vestrymen," chided Arly, her black eyes dancing.

"Clark and Chisholm?" and Jim Sargent's brows knotted. "They're not my fellow-vestrymen. Either they go or I do!"

"I would like you to remain," quietly stated Rev. Smyth Boyd. "I hope to achieve several important alterations in the ethics of Market Square church." He was grave this morning. He had unknowingly been ripening for some time on many questions; and the revelations in this morning's papers had brought him to the point of decision. "I wish to drive the money changers out of the temple," he added, and glanced at Gall with a smile in which there was acknowledgment.

"A remarkably lucrative enterprise, eh Gall?" laughed her Uncle Jim, remembering her criticism on the occasion of her first and only vestry meeting, when she had called their attention to the satire of the stained-glass window.

"You will have still the scribes and pharisees, doctor; those who stand praying in the public places, so they may be seen of all men," and Gall smiled across at him, within her eyes the mischievous twinkle which had been absent for many days.

They were looking at the armor in the Metropolitan Museum.

"Those shirts of mail must have been awfully uncomfortable," she remarked.

"Yes," said her escort, "especially after they'd been in the laundry once or twice and the edges began to get rough."

At a recent examination under the United States Civil Service rules, in a neighboring city, one of the geography questions propounded was:

"Name the highest mountain peaks in the United States."

"One of the answers was: 'Pikes Peak, Chesapeake and Peek-a-boo.'"

The old colored woman who was banding round the chicken was growing proud and proud at the praise of the cooking.

"Auntie," said one of the guests, "this chicken is fine. I must have some cooked in this way when I go home. I suppose you like chicken yourself?"

"Yes, sah," said the old woman, "I likes it, but my ole man, he likes chicken, dreful much. He likes it so much that—that—if he couldn't get chicken on other way, he—hed buy it."

A small boy who had recently passed his fifth birthday was riding in a suburban car with his mother, when they were asked the customary question, "How old is the boy?"

Hard Water.

Do you realize how hard water is when a boat sails through it at full speed? Water passing at fifty miles an hour is not the limpid liquid we are accustomed to bathe in. If you put your arm overboard from a hydroplane running fifty miles an hour and strike a wave crest the probability is that you will break your arm or wrist, because at that speed the water has not time to give or even to change shape, and striking it is like striking so much metal.

If a swordsman should enter one of the great hydraulic quarries, where a stream of water under enormous head is used to wash down hillsides, and attempt to cut into one of those streams his sword would fly in pieces without being able to penetrate the water. The stream is like a bar of iron.

Queer Postage Rates.

The city of Christobal, in the canal zone, is separated from the city of Colon, in the republic of Panama, by a street only. One side of the street is in one city, the other side in the other city. A boy or girl living in Christobal can for 2 cents send a letter all the way to New York, or farther yet, to San Francisco. Or if he wants to send it a long, long way a two-cent stamp will carry a letter from Christobal to Alaska or Hawaii or Guam or even halfway around the world to the Philippine Islands. But suppose that boy or girl wants to send a letter across the street to some friend in Colon. How much postage must he use? Why, 5 cents, of course! It doesn't seem quite right, does it?—St. Nicholas.

It Certainly Was.

"And you are afraid of the dark, Tommie?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"But there's nothing in the dark to hurt you."

"Well, what's pop limping around for?"

"Oh, he fell over a chair when he came home late last night."

"Well, that was in the dark, wasn't it?"—Tommy's Statesman.

POLLY PERKINS

By CATHERINE COOPE.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

No one would have stigmatized Polly Perkins as being insane. Eccentric, mentally unbalanced, she certainly was and another couple of years might possibly see her comfortably ensconced in a home for incurables. For the present she was happily if whimsically domiciled in a tiny cottage on Long Island. Miss Polly's mental state was the cause of rude jests from village children and one of amused interest to older minds. Week-end guests were sure to be taken past the abode of Polly Perkins just as they were invariably regaled by the story of the haunted house on the old farm road.

"She's dippy on the subject of pink," said Jimmy Rogers as he strolled past Miss Perkins' cottage with Bob Hawthorne after a swim in the Sound.

"I wouldn't have believed it," laughed Hawthorne as he eyed with amused glance the pink-painted cottage, the pink flower gardens, pink gate posts and outbuildings. "I suppose she has pink bows on all the five stock," he commented.

"She sure has," chuckled Jimmy, "every living chicken in the barnyard has a pink bow on its neck."

It was no. until a few days later that Hawthorne, looking in Jimmy Rogers' hammock, looked up to see a lone chicken clucking away and pecking contentedly for vermin in Rogers' well-kept lawn. The chicken had a more or less bedraggled pink bow on its neck that sadly interfered at times with the capturing of dainties from the soft sod.

And because Bob Hawthorne was a trifle bored with his own society and more or less curious regarding the eccentric Miss Perkins, he decided to make a martyr of himself and take the straying bird home.

He had little difficulty in catching the chicken. Evidently Miss Perkins' hens were more in the nature of pets than table delicacies.

After a few moments of reconnoitering he discovered that a wing of Miss Perkins' property practically adjoined that of Jimmy Rogers. He climbed the latter's fence and found himself facing the back of a pink chicken coop. A sharp turn around the fence brought him into the awkward position of having tripped over a pink-clad figure. She was lying flat upon her back in the tall grasses.

"You're no right to be snoring in that wet grass," he said.

"I was not snoring, and the grass is as dry as a bone," the girl said with asperity. She had arisen to a sitting posture and was endeavoring to coax back the frightened chicken. "I don't know why—all men think that every piece of grass in the universe is continually wet."

She had got the chicken back by continued coaxing while she was addressing her remarks to Hawthorne.

"Are you Miss Polly Perkins?" he asked, when her wide-open eyes again roamed toward his face.

"Yes, I am," she said. "Is there anything else you would like to know, Rude Person?" she inquired. You know," she continued, "I am not the Miss Polly Perkins you think I am. I am her niece." With that she turned swiftly on her heels and left Bob Hawthorne standing beside the pink chicken coop.

"You know," she confided to him two nights later when they left the club house after a most delightful tango evening, "I have a dreadful confession to make." Since Bob's eyes were anything but fear inspiring, Polly continued: "I saw you sneaking down to Aunt Polly's chicken coop and deliberately put that bird over the fence so that you might see it."

"Are you engaged?" asked Bob bluntly.

"No—Rude Person," laughed Polly. "Then prepare for the worst soon," said Bob possessing himself of the slim fingers that he had watched jealously caressing the pink-bowed chicken.

"For the best," contradicted Polly softly.

The Futurist Painter.

Painting to the Futurist is no pretty and soothing art to be hung in a room and discussed at discreet dinner parties. Like all Futurist work, it is inspired by adventure and discovery. It is a violent stimulant, to be taken only now and then, deadly as whisky, if too often repeated; but never an opiate, never narcotic with sleep. The Futurist destroys everything soft, gracious, effeminate, subdued and moribund. He works with brilliant colors and sharp angles. He strives to find plastic equivalents for all appearances of our actual life—its noises, smells, music, halls, factories, trains and harbors. He tells us that noises and smells may be in form concave or convex, triangular, elliptical, oblong, conical, spherical, spiral; and as for their color, he says the smell of machinery and sport, for instance, is nearly always red; the smell of restaurants and cafes is silvery, yellow or violet; the smell of animals yellow or blue. Let us not laugh too soon. Noises and smells are only states of mind, and we talk of jealousy (which is a state of mind) as green or green-eyed; in anger we say we "see red"; in melancholy we "have the blues."—Atlantic Monthly.

Best Work Done in Maturity.
The history of human achievement shows that there have been a few geniuses who have accomplished their greatest work at an early age. But the great work of the world, the bulk of all the great achievements, has been done by men who developed slowly through years of observation and experience, their minds broadening and ripening and growing ever stronger, and these did their best work in their rich maturity.

Almost Right.
Al Jolson tells an amusing story of his first golf caddy. Jolson found driving off rather difficult and commended with his caddy as to the reason he missed the ball so frequently. The boy sagely delivered the following advice: "The first thing you've got to learn, Mr. Jolson, is to 'consecrate' your eye on the ball. Then you can hit it."

STAGE GREAT EVENTS FOR ROWING REGATTA

HARVARD COLLEGE WORRIED ON HOW TO SEAT ALL PEOPLE FOR THE YALE GAME.

LATE SPORTING NOTES

Gun Clubs Awakening to the Fact that Their Grounds are Lead Mines—History of Family
Baseball Bat.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Aug. 9.—Judging from the number of entries received, the forty-third regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen of the United States, to be held on the Connecticut river at Springfield next Friday and Saturday should be one of the most successful in the history of the organization. Nearly every prominent club east of the Rockies is represented, while the Canadian contingent headed by Robert Dibble of Toronto, the holder of the single sculls championship, is larger than anticipated in view of the war.

The National Regatta returns to Springfield after a period of seven years. The races last year were held at Philadelphia where the first regatta was rowed in 1873. The National Association was formed the year previous in New York in order to bring the sport under the supervision of a recognized governing board. Up to that time oarsmen, who rowed for sport only, frequently indulged in races with professionals for cash prizes and even Harvard University crews were compelled to enter such events in order to race. President emeritus, Charles W. Eliot of Harvard rowed on a Crimson crew as a student for a cash prize and under a strict interpretation would still be called a professional. It is recorded, however, that the winners of such Harvard crews were always turned over to charity.

The Springfield regatta will be held on the west side of the Connecticut river below the old toll bridge. The river runs about three-quarters of a mile an hour, but high water this summer has slightly increased the speed of the current. The program includes quarter mile, intermediate, association, and champion events for single sculls, intermediate and senior fours, quadruple sculls, intercollegiate and senior paired shells, senior international four oared shells, and intermediate junior and senior eights. The Association singles will be held on Friday, which will enable the winner to obtain a full day's rest for the championship singles. The singles, doubles and intermediate and senior four races will be on one and one-fourth miles with a turn. The others will be the same distance but straight away.

Harvard's Troubles.
There are problems in all kinds of sports. The baseball managers are always on the alert to increase attendance at their parks, while the college football executives are constantly worried by the necessity of raising for many spectators more than their stadiums will seat. The situation at Cambridge is an example. When the Harvard stadium was built in 1903 it was expected that the vast horseshoe would equal all seating demands for years to come. In just twelve years Harvard finds herself in the position where there is talk of shifting the annual Yale-Harvard game to New Haven unless the Boston Building Commission will permit the erection of large temporary stands for the game next November. The 33,000 spectators who saw this game at Cambridge last year, close to 70,000 paid $137,000 to witness the Crimson defeat the Blue, 38 to 0. Now the same 70,000 and some additional thousands want to see what Yale can do in the way of a comeback. While Coach Percy Haughton is working about a substitute for Charley Bradley, Graduate Manager Moore is trying to figure out how to put 70,000 spectators in a stadium never meant to seat more than half that number.

A Family Bat.
George Forging of the Kansas City Athletics, by the way, around 250 with a bat said to have been in his family for more than thirty years. The bat, so the story goes, was handed down to George by his father, who had it made from a piece of the old Civil War century scaffold. Some players would think that there was a dead man's curse on a bat that didn't then better hitting figures than these.

Mine Trap Grounds.
Gun clubs are just awakening to the fact that grounds that have been shot over a number of years are veritable lead mines. One western club has recently taken out more than twenty-five tons of shot and believes that as much more remains to be mined. With lead at the rate of a ton the returns are well worth the labor involved. It is now quite possible that some clever American business men may buy up the European battlefields after the war, the old lead and steel buried in the soil.

Hermann Wrong.
When Gary Hermann heard that the New York Americans had purchased Dan Tipton, the pitching sensation of the Indianapolis 49ers, he stated: "There is a working agreement between the Cincinnati and Indianapolis clubs which gives the Reds first chance to buy the best league pitcher for Tipton's services. Evidently Hermann did not see fit to exercise his option, since the latest bulletin of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues shows that Tipton has been purchased by the Yankees."

Training on Farm.
The Rutgers college football squad has been training for some weeks on a specially hired farm with a view of being in perfect shape, both from a physical and gridiron standpoint, when the season opens next month. Just what Princeton will say about changing the "Back to the Farm" campaign to this extreme, in case Rutgers defeats the Tigers on October 2, should prove interesting reading.

Free Baseball.
Some novel ideas are being advanced in connection with the proposed re-organization of the South Michigan Baseball League for 1916. One plan calls for a $2,500 appropriation from each city presented, to go over with the assurance that at least 1,100 season tickets at five dollars each will be sold before the club signs its players for the season. In return the club agrees to play free baseball every day in the week except Saturdays and Sundays, when a nominal admission charge will be made. Municipal parks and piers are not new, but baseball clubs under practically the same classification are a bit advanced to say the least. It may, however, be that the forerunner of government ownership of the big leagues.

Cheaper Prices.
Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago Federals, has not reached the free or municipal owned baseball club but he does believe that the general scale of prices in the big leagues could stand a little pulling down. He suggests that the price range be as follows: Box seats, 75c; grandstand, 50c; pavilion, 25c; bleachers, 15c. Elaborating on this idea, Tinker says: "The time is sure to come when the fans will not be asked to pay such high prices for seeing baseball. It is asking too much of the public to pay 25, 50, 75 cents and $1 every day to see a baseball game, which lasts less than two hours. I believe if the price of the bleachers was reduced to 15 cents it would more than double the patronage, and the same would hold good in the pavilions, grandstand and box seats.

"Almost any one can afford a dime or a quarter, but ask them to give up 75 cents and $1 and they turn a deaf ear. If I were the president of the Federal league I would cut the admission fee down to the prices I have suggested, and I believe it would pay two-fold at the box office, especially when the new league is putting up just as good an article of ball as any other big league."

Need Training.
Trainer Jack Lockley arises to remark what the performance of Norman Taber in breaking the world's record for the mile shows what the college athlete can do when he has sufficient time in which to train. Assuming that Mosley's contention is correct A. A. U. officials are understood to favor the closing of all American colleges at least six months previous to the next Olympic games.

"Snake Ball" Now.
Otis Crandall, formerly of the New York Nationals, and now pitching for the St. Louis Federals, is credited with the invention of a new delivery which has been named the "Snake Ball." While the ball does not bite the batter it is said to be almost as fearsome. According to the reports of opposing batters, the sphere floats up to the plate in a series of eccentric circles that give batters trying to follow its course the false impression that it is small wonder that Fielder Jones kicked about the brand of umpiring his team received recently.

Only the Weather.
One answer to "What's the Matter With Baseball?" was given by the fans of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Brooklyn, recently, when more than 125,000 paid admissions to the ball parks of these cities in two days.

On the Spur of the Moment ROY K. MOULTON

The House Party.
Jones had a party at his house, it was a beefsteak dinner. One of the fivers was the cook. He said he was a winner. Yes, Jones' wife had gone away. To spend a chilly summer. Jones put much thought upon this spread.

And planned it for a hummer. The steak was burned till it was black. And tough as any boot. The kitchen surely looked as though the cook were on a foot. They couldn't find the butter nor the sugar nor the tea. The host looked on the wreckage. And was sore as sore could be.

They left the dinner where it was. And went downtown to eat. The other folks were gay, but Jones knew misery complete. He hired a woman to come in. To scrub as women do. She says she thinks within a week. She may perhaps get through.

The Hickeyville Clarion.
A strong movement is on foot to have the crooks taken out of Swazey creek. As the stream now runs a raft of logs has to travel about twenty miles to get a distance of four miles down stream. With the creek straightened out this would save about sixteen miles. The only thing that would conflict with the success of this movement would be a question of what to do with the water. For the present it could be stored away in ponds and cisterns. Henry Twine sent to California for some pumpkin seeds last spring and it was a little late in coming, so the largest pumpkin he could raise weighed only 81 pounds. It is a shame Henry couldn't have obtained the seed earlier so the pumpkin could have had its full growth.

There are so many new devices on Anse Frisby's new automobile that when the engine gets to running the devices it can't get enough power left to run the car.

Contributed.
This is the hottest time of the year. The blazing summer days are here and those that have bug buggies go where the country breezes blow. They load their tanks with gasoline and hike away to pastures green and take a sandwich and some tea to eat beneath the greenwood tree, where daddy-longlegs from the sky drop down into the custard pie and spiders from their webs up far drop down in the pickle jar, and the ants explore all through their clothes, and red bug burrow through their hose, and fleas hop on them one by one until the diabolical machine is a dead, and the sun burns their noses red, and that night they wish they were dead. The poor man, meaning you and me, eats not beneath the green wood tree; he never cooks on a machine or takes the dough for gasoline, and so does not like afar to where the daddy-longlegs are, where some fat female, with a spread that would dismay a fourth bed, removes her shoes and silken hose and goes to stick her pudgy toes into the waters of the brook and hollers at him. "Don't you look!" He gets no bugs on him that fall; no cow steps in the pickle pie; no worms drop down out of the sky; no pig comes by and eats the cheese; he makes no romping round for fleas; he has a napkin in his lap, and eats his lunch and takes his nap where bugs are not and sheets are clean, and longs to own a chug machine.

My wife's gone to the country; I do not say "Hokey." I have no socks. Since my wife went away. I eat at one-armed restaurants. My stomach's on the blink. My downy couch has not been made in fifteen years. I think. My house, it looks exactly like a whirlwind had swept through; Cigar butts, ashes, playing cards and chips red, white and blue. The sink is full of dishes and the iceman doesn't come; I'm hot and soiled and weary and my home is on the bum. My wife's away, they are many. But I'm not telegraphing. To ask her to come back.

Concerning the Hyphen.
While he is about it, Mark Waterson might begin right home and knock the hyphen out of the Louisville Courier-Journal—W. J. Jones & Co. Jones & Co. they never advertise.

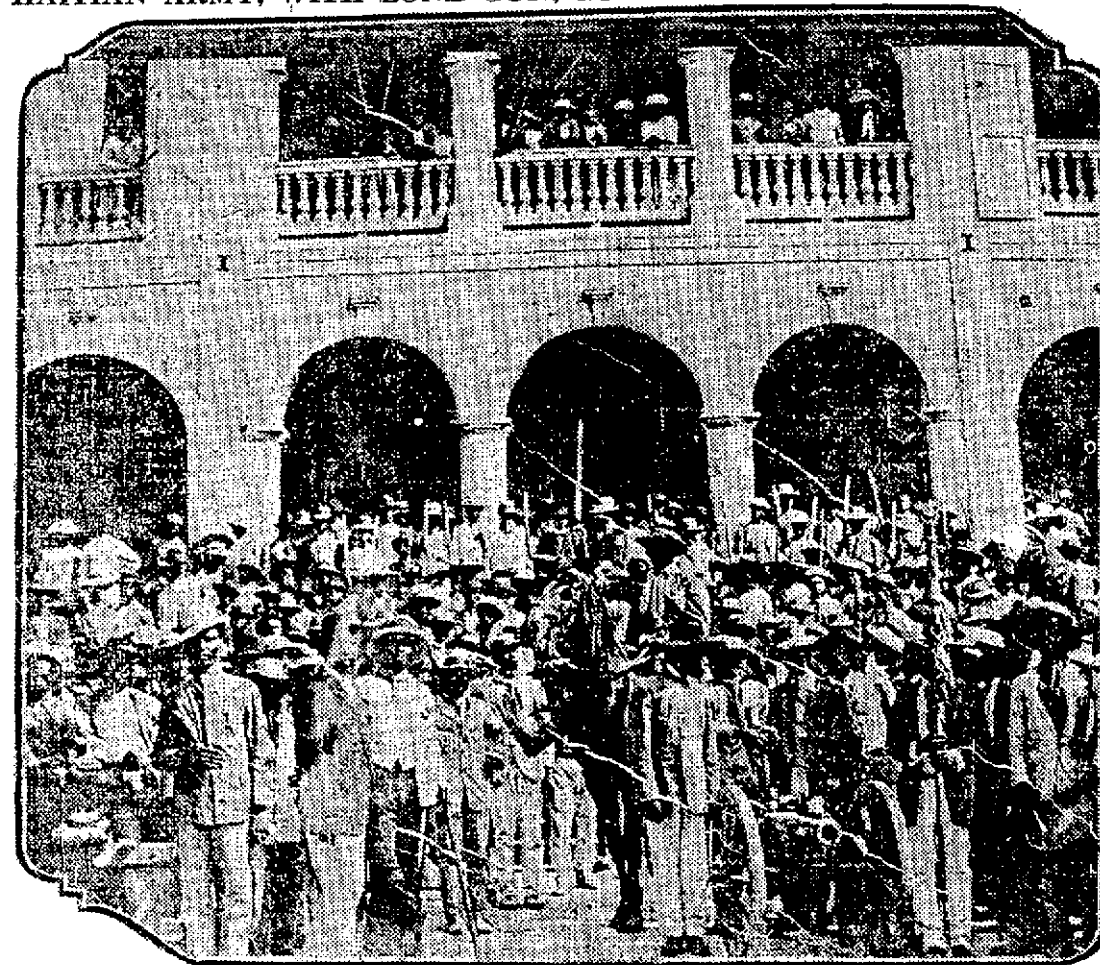

Don't you think it queer? I say, don't you think it queer about Jones & Co. I say, don't you think it queer—say, you're listening to me! What are you knitting up your brows for, as if you were in deep study? "Jones & Co.—Jones & Co. What do they sell?" I don't believe I ever heard of 'em."

The P. B. Suit.
O. Palm Beach suit. Come here to me, And meet my old friend, B. V. D. I've waited long. Yes, long for you. Was most afraid You'd not be due. Jump on and drape. My well knit frame. I'm surely glad That you have come. Although you are transparent quite, I'll stand between. No one and light. I'll dodge around in shadows dark. And not go chasing. Through the park. I will be very circumspect. And not give the X-ray effect. I'll not expose my manly form. Although the weather's somewhat warm. It's one of woman's idle whims. That man must cover up the limbs. ## ROCKFORD MEN WILL INSPECT HIGHWAYS AROUND JANESVILLE County Road Commissioner Moore Will Show Gravel Macadam Roads to Winnebago County Supervisors.

A delegation of county supervisors from Rockford and A. B. Carver, superintendent of highways at Winnebago county, Ill., will arrive in Janesville this evening and will go on an inspection trip of the system of state highways in Rock county on Tuesday. The party will be in charge of County Highway Commissioner E. Moore and special attention will be given to the gravel macadam work in which the Rockford men are especially interested. State Engineer A. R. Hirst advised the Illinois men that roads in Rock county were of the character concerning which they desired information and arrangements were made at once with Mr. Moore for an inspection trip which will occupy the most of Tuesday. In addition to a tour of roads already completed the party will visit several stretches now in process of construction.

With the advent of a lull in the summer rains road crews at work in the county redoubled their energies and forces were increased in an effort to make up for lost time. There are a number of roads which are closed to traffic in consequence and there were indicated by Mr. Moore today. His bulletin might be headed "How to get to the Janesville Fair."

The Evansville-Janesville road is practically impassable as the result of work in the town of Center and near Leyden. Travelers are advised to make the Magnolia road crossing from the Evansville road at the Falls creamery.

The Delavan road in Bradford is closed and the Milwaukee road in Turtle is closed and will remain so for several weeks. A road crew is at work on the Milwaukee road in the town of Harmony, but this highway will be open to travel if there is no more rain. It is impassable in wet weather, however.

The Janesville-Edgerton road is closed as a piece of cement work is being put in south of Edgerton. Travelers should go by way of Newville and Milton. The Willowdale road in the town of Janesville is closed and Contractor Britt began work on the Happy Hollow road today, near the town line bridge. There is a bridge out on this highway and it is closed to traffic in consequence.

The following roads are now open to traffic: The Afton road to Beloit; the lower Hanover road to Hanover and Footville; the Magnolia road to Evansville; the middle road to Delavan; and Milton avenue to Milton and Edgerton.

POLICE DEPARTMENT IS ORGANIZED FOR A STRENUOUS WEEK

Mindful of the amount stolen last year during the fair time, Chief of Police P. D. Champion this morning outlined his plans for the protection of the citizens in the city and the fair crowds from thieves this week. Last year about twenty people were victims of the light-fingered gentry, and several hundred dollars were taken from stolen purses. In addition to this, sneak thieves raided several homes, and although three men were caught, they were never convicted because of lack of evidence.

All the patrolmen that can be spared from the down town beats will be placed at the fair grounds and an automobile will be enlisted in the services of the department so that all calls may be answered promptly. Citizens are urged to inform the police at once in the case of a robbery.

If an opening is given thieves they will certainly take advantage of it and because large crowds will be at the fair, it is not out of the way to expect pickpockets and sneak thieves, working both at the grounds and in residence district, said Chief Champion this morning. "You cannot expect a policeman to be everywhere at once and people should exercise unusual care in guarding their valuables."

To guard against sneak thieves, the doors and windows should be securely locked and if possible, put valuables where any thief would have no chance of obtaining them. Pickpockets generally work in gangs, two or three operating together. One is called a "stall" who attracts the attention of the proposed victim by brushing into him or engaging him in conversation, while the second thief snatches the pocketbook or purse and "slips" it to another so as to avoid suspicion if caught. Good care of the pocketbook at all times will do much to prevent losses.

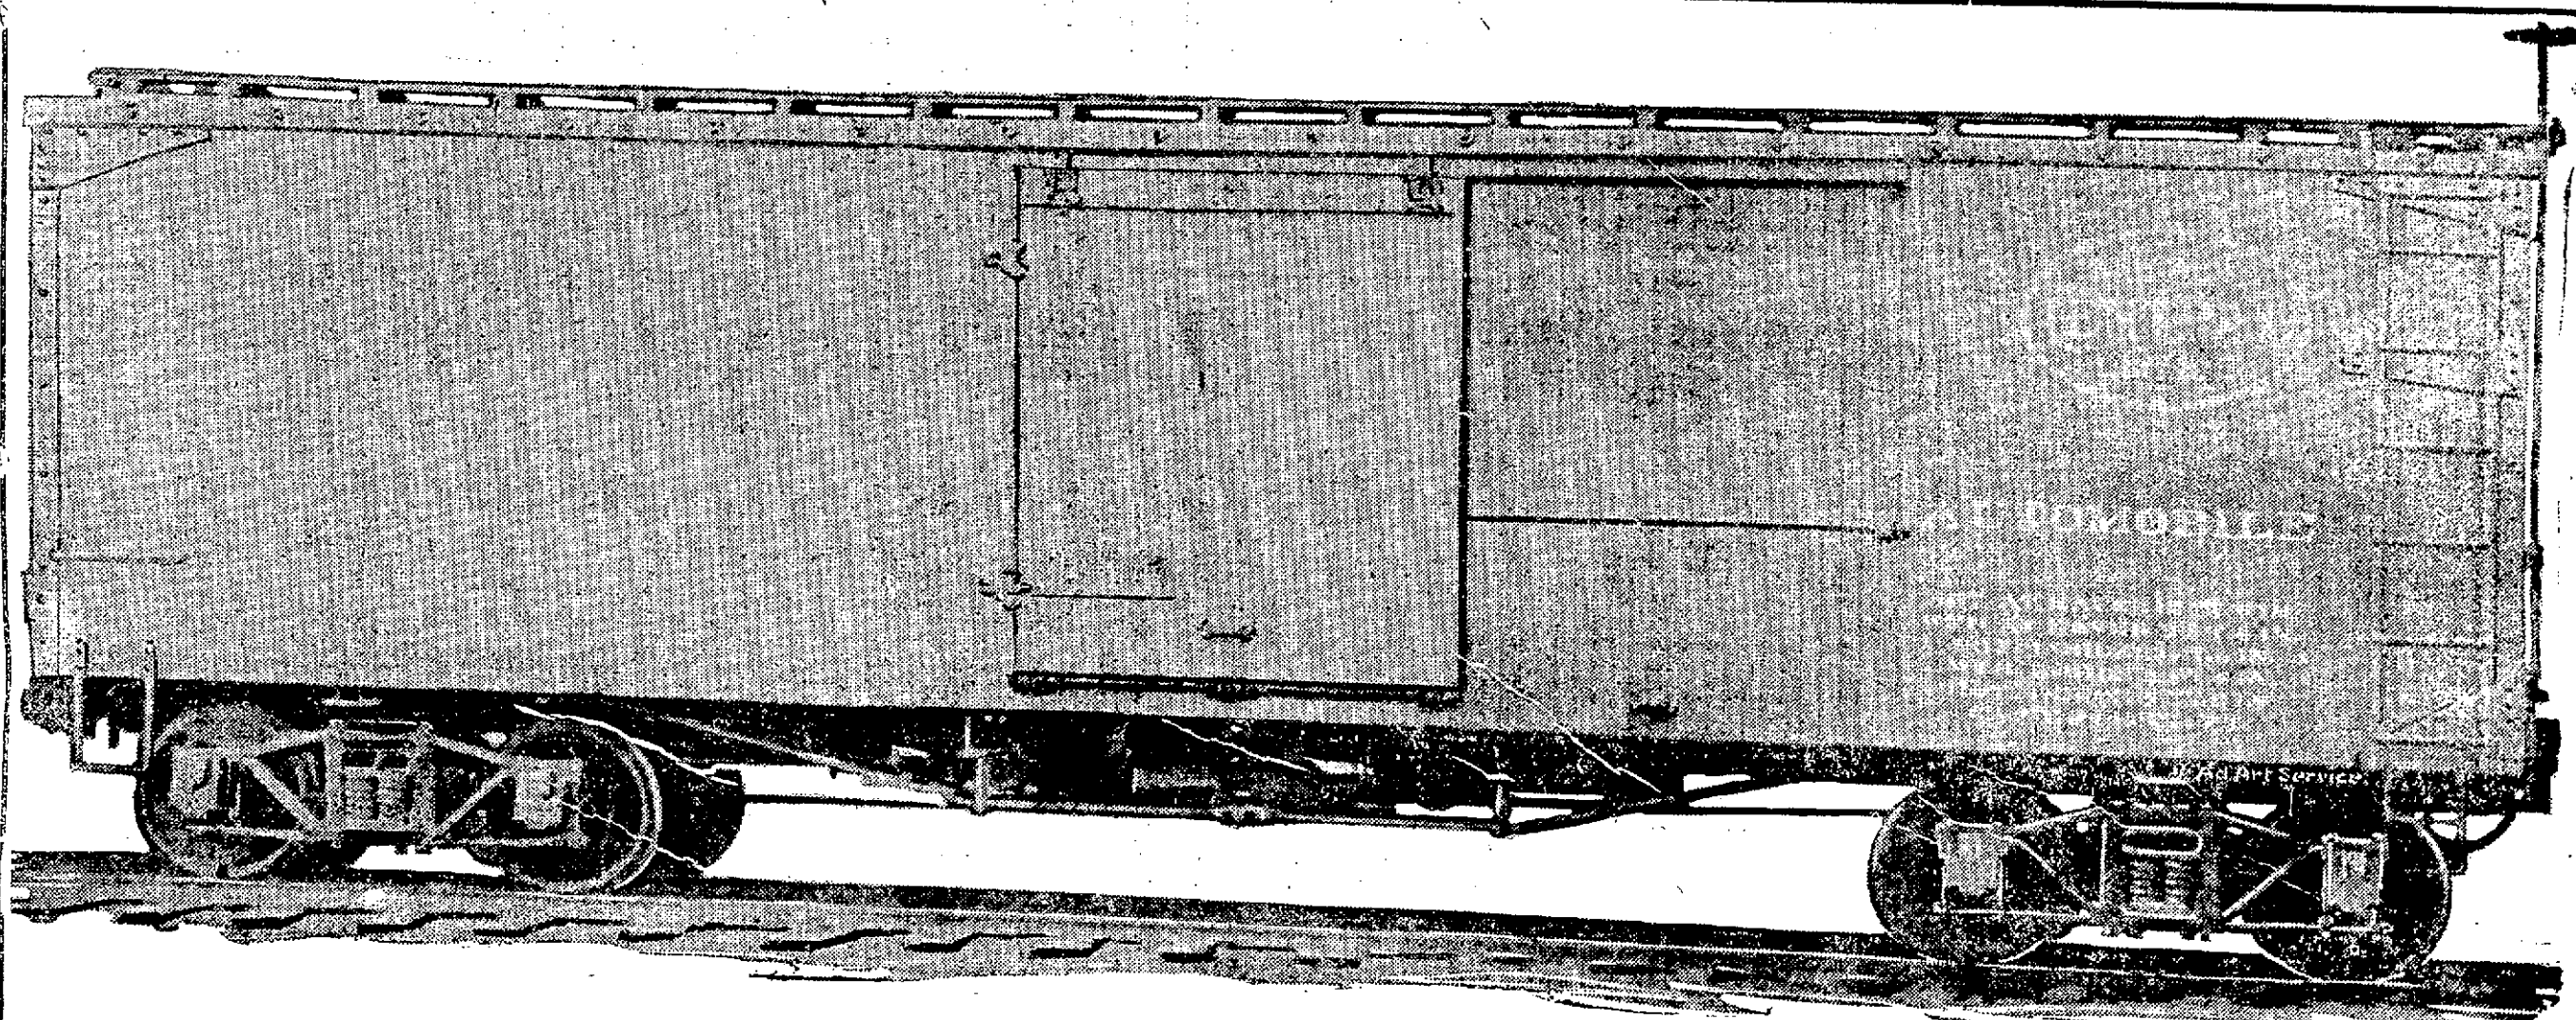

Special officers will be at the track and several detectives will be assigned. The detectives will be of wide experience and every train will be met and passengers looked over. Known thieves will find trouble in getting into the city.

On Sunday, four negroes, two of them women, named Crow, came into Janesville and were found by Chief Champion. They were taken to the station and then piloted to a train with instructions to keep away from Janesville for all time. These four had been arrested here for the Madison police, the women being charged with stealing purses.

A strict watch has been ordered among the patrolmen on the downtown streets and last night several women, known to be fair followers, were given warning to leave before this morning. Under no conditions will the police allow stands to be erected in the downtown district and attempts to violate this rule, promises to result in court action. There have been many applications made to the city for street licenses and all have been refused.

Auto regulations will be rigidly enforced and today Chief Champion announced that the state law against open mufflers would be strictly enforced. "It shall be unlawful for any person to operate any automobile, motorcycle, or other similar vehicle, without a sufficient modern and improved muffler to prevent noise, or with its muffler open upon or along any public street within the corporate limits of any city or village of this state." The penalty is from five to a hundred dollars.

"The auto drivers who are to carry passengers to the fair grounds will please take special notice of this law, for many complaints have been received against their tearing up Milwaukee or Milwaukee avenues with their mufflers open," said Chief Champion. Under the city ordinances no person but a resident of this city will be allowed to transport passengers without a city license. Sunday Brigham of Evansville was stopped from carrying passengers to the ball game as he did not have the ten dollar license necessary. The charge will be ten dollars per day for each day, as the city ordinance provides.

Carload Of Knight Motored Cars

JUST RECEIVED TODAY--COME IN AND SEE THEM

THIS announces the greatest achievement in the history of the automobile business.

The Knight is the automobile motor that revolutionized the entire motor car industry of Europe.

The Daimler of England, Panhard of France, the Mercedes of Germany, the Minerva of Belgium--in fact practically all

The Willys-Knight has the same advantages and is just as efficient as those costly European Knight cars.

As we built more cars in a single week than most of the costly European cars--are equipped with the famous Knight type motor.

And these are the motor cars that cost from $4,000 to $8,000 each!

Practically every royal and titled family in Europe owns one or more Knight motored cars.

The Knight type motor is the nearest approach to 100% efficiency.

European manufacturers build in a whole year, we are able to utilize every modern manufacturing economy.

That is why our price is so much less.

The Willys-Knight, in our opinion, has the least vibration and is the smoothest, quietest and most economical car made.

Have your demonstration at once.

This motor differs from other motors in that where all others deteriorate with use, this improves; to all others carbon is harmful, here it is beneficial; size for size it has more power.

It has no noisy poppet valves; no noisy cams; no uncertain valve springs; no troublesome valves to grind; practically no wearing parts.

PREPARING EXHIBITS

College of Agriculture Professor Gives Important Directions on Selection of Sheaf and Threshing Grain.

The Janesville Fair, which comes this week, August 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14, is to have a special department for boys and girls, including not only the exhibits of manual training and the home economics department, but school, club and home projects in garden produce and agriculture. Boys and girls interested should procure copies of the list of exhibits by applying to Dr. W. A. Munn and get ready for the exhibit. The young people of the county have some good gardens and it is to be expected that they will have a fine exhibit. Right here it is well to consider the preparation of the exhibits. It is very important that they be neatly and carefully arranged if they are to receive due credit.

Vegetables should be thoroughly washed and neatly arranged and apples and plums so placed that they will attract attention by the care of their arrangement. Our fair comes so early that it is not possible to have so great a display of fruits and vegetables as at later fairs, but there will be plenty of exhibits of interest.

The boys may also be of great assistance to their fathers in preparing their grain and forage plants for the general exhibit. G. B. Mortimer of the Wisconsin college of agriculture, at the request of Prof. Hewick, has sent out detailed directions for the preparation of these exhibits for the coming fairs, and now is the time for getting in the exhibit and making it ready not only for our Janesville fair, but for the later fairs as well. Rock county is a leader in grain raising and should have a good showing not only of wheat and corn, but also of the state fair as well.

The directions above referred to follow:

Sheaf Grains.
Selection.—The grain crops will soon be ripening and if we are to get the very best for our samples, we must be right on the job for these reasons:

1. Only the very best is wanted.
2. Good color is a very important item in grains. Green and rains discolor grain at ripening time.
3. The grain should not get too ripe; it breaks up easily and shatters.
4. It is a good plan to get the heads to make the selections before the grains are dead ripe and before the blower goes into the field to cut the crop. It is not so easy to select good heads and seeds from the grain made by the grain binder. Care should be taken, however, not to select the samples before the grain is really ripe, otherwise the heads will look greenish and the kernels will be shrunken.

This sample should represent the variety for which it is shown; hence the extremely large ears that are found growing along the edges of the fields should not be taken. Select plants of good average size and weight. As the height of the crop can only be determined from the length of the straw the plants should be cut off close to the ground. One more word about the selection—always select more than will really be used. This will give an opportunity for further selection when the samples are being prepared for the sheaves.

Curing and Storing.—The next step following the selection of the plants is to keep them as they are, as to keep the very best color. This is the fundamental rule, always cure show grains under cover away from the sun and in a dry, airy place that is free from dirt and mice. Care must be taken not to pile plants up too much. There is a good plan. Either bind them up in loose, small bundles by tying the twine close to the butts or, if the heads are to be put out on shelves or tables, the bundles may then be hung up with heads hanging downward.

Making the Sheaves.—After the plants have thoroughly cured the sheaf samples are ready to be made. We want samples that show a nice tight straw, this is a good way to get it. Strip off the leaves and cut the part that wraps around the straw. This may seem like a slow job, but it doesn't take much time when you once get started. The plants are all stripped, we are now ready to make the sheaves.

A single sheaf of grain for show purposes should be at least three or four inches long. It is not necessary to have them all larger than that, but they should not be smaller, for they do not look as attractive. Enough plants should be put together to make a sheaf that will hold heads even and well rounded up to make the sheaf look best. Now we are ready to tie up the sheaf. What kind of twine shall we use? Boys, if you want the very best looking sheaves, here is a secret about tying them up. It makes a lot of difference to the appearance of the sheaf as to how it has been tied. Therefore, do not use twine of any kind, but rather common red baby ribbon, or strawed samples should be tied three times—just below the heads, in the middle and above the heads. The knot near the heads should not be tied too tight, because the straw will break and then some of the heads will then hang down. The other two, however, should be firmly tied, and the ends of the twine cut.

Storing.—It has taken some time to prepare these sheaves and we want them to look just as nice when they are shown as they do when first prepared. In order to do this, we must keep them in a clean, dry, mouse and bird proof place. Handle them as little as is necessary and then very carefully.

Threshed Grains.—If there is any one thing that is demanded in threshed grains, it is purity, cleanliness, and careful grading. The only way to get these qualities is to make use of the threshing machine. Never attempt to exhibit grain just as it came from the threshing machine. If you do, the other fellow will get the prize.

The color is a very important item in grains of any kind, and it is a good plan to follow if you want the best color. Cure some of the very best bundles under cover and then thresh them separately. This plan will guarantee the best color.

Quality.—Samples of threshed grains should not be exhibited in amounts less than a peck. Prize winning samples have these qualities—good color, high weight per bushel, uniformity of seeds, dirt, chaff, and other kinds of grains, uniformity and plumpness. It is a good plan to exhibit grains in a nice clean sack.

Forage Plants.—Now is the time to select and prepare the forage plants—clover, alfalfa, and grasses. These plants should be selected when ready to be cut for hay. It is at this time that they have their largest

WOUNDED, BUT HAPPY TO HAVE GIVEN ALL FOR FRANCE

The scene here pictured was witnessed in Amberieu, a small town at the base of the Jura, on the road from Lyons to Geneva. A pathetic procession was this, of the lame and the halt French soldiers who had been wounded in action and sent back from the firing line to recuperate. Withal, regardless of their wounds, many of which will never heal, these French fighters are cheerful and happy to have given what they could to their "dear France."

Intimate Story of Fighting

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Gallipoli Peninsula, Turkey, Aug. 9.

Many dead British soldiers have been buried by the Turks—usually after a trench has been taken. Before the body is disposed of it is searched for letters, or some other means of identification. In the course of this many interesting documents, among them diaries of fallen officers and men, have been found. A number of these were placed at the disposal of the Associated Press correspondent with permission to copy such parts as he might care to make use of.

A dozen of the diaries were read. Parts of them are given here. Life in the trenches is pictured as one long round of fatigue and squadding and keeping back the Turks, whom nearly all had come to respect and fear.

The diary of Private R. Charlesworth, 6th platoon, "B" company, 8th Manchester Regiment, 32 years old, is somewhat typical of those kept by men of his station. There is a quaint charm in his simple description of the trip to Egypt and the installing of the regiment in Australia.

President Van Hise Called Before Finance Committee on University Appropriation Bill.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Aug. 9.—In the hope that an agreement might be reached on the university appropriation bill, the joint finance committee held an executive session last week with President Charles R. Van Hise of the university and Dr. W. H. Allen of Governor Philip's staff. No information could be obtained as to what transpired at the meeting, but practically all of the statisticians were summoned to go over the figures. One of the members of the finance committee said that an understanding had been reached so that the bill would be reported to the senate in such form that it is probable that no amendment would be offered.

The normal school appropriation measure which was considered in much the same manner went through the assembly with only 2 votes in opposition and while it was later over until Tuesday's session in the senate, it is not anticipated that any radical amendments will be offered. A provision in the bill limiting the salary of the secretary of the board of normal regents is the only provision of which an amendment has thus far been offered. Senator Bosshard of La Crosse has offered an amendment removing the salary of the secretary of the board of regents from $3,500 annually.

It was stated by members of the finance committee today that it had been decided that $40,000 would not be sufficient to administer the affairs of the new consolidated department of agriculture and that $10,000 additional appropriation will be recommended by the joint finance committee. Besides this, many of the bills relating to fees have been gone over and amendments will be offered which will give the department a slice of opposition and while it was later over until Tuesday's session in the senate, it is not anticipated that any radical amendments will be offered.

The state engineering department will require an appropriation of $18,000 annually, according to a new bill which it has introduced. The department takes over the engineering duties formerly exercised by the railroad, tax and highway commissions and some of the university work in this educational institutions and charitable and penal institutions.

BEER CENSOR BEGINS HIS WORK IN IOWA

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Mason City, Iowa, Aug. 9.—R. D. Mason "Beer Censor" by virtue of his appointment to administer the city council today reported that on his first day of work he had sent back to breweries thirty barrels of beer out of sixty received in Mason City. He is compiling a list of the brewery population of the city, and expects to see that they do not overdo their liquor orders.

"One barrel or three cases of beer and one gallon of whiskey is as much as any one man should have in a month without a physician's prescription," said Mr. Mason.

BRUSSELS COMMANDER RECALLED TO BERLIN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Amsterdam, Aug. 9.—General von Krawell, military commander of Brussels, has been recalled to Berlin as the result, it is reported, or disagreement with General von Bissing as to the administration of affairs in the one-time Belgian capital. The former, it is said, was in favor of conciliating the Belgian population, while van Bissing believed in a stricter discipline.

Matters came to a crisis when the government issued an order that no Belgian should be allowed to wear the Belgian or allied colors. Von Krawell protested that such a measure could be of no possible benefit, and would merely irritate the populace. He declined to put the order into effect, whereupon von Bissing asked Berlin to recall the commander.

GALLIPOLI CAMPAIGN STUBBORNLY FOUGHT

ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT GIVES TURKISH SIDE OF FIGHTING.

TURKS SHOW STRENGTH

Sultan's Soldiers Have Proven So Powerful that the Allies Have Made No Effect On Them.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

General Headquarters, Gallipoli, Aug. 9.—"There are no secrets around here. You can go anywhere you please," said Field Marshal Liman von Sanders Pacha to the Associated Press correspondent, when the latter presented his credentials and asked for permission to visit the front.

"I may add that the military situation is most favorable for us," he continued. "We intend driving the British out of Ari Burnu before long. But we are in no hurry because we can leave the work with making sacrifices which might still be necessary to get rid of the enemy."

The supreme commander of the Turkish forces on the Gallipoli peninsula is a man somewhat advanced in years, but remarkably well preserved. He is about 6 ft. tall, and well proportioned in body; there is a soft quality in the lines of his face and the expression of his eyes. Liman Pacha, a Turkish statesman, was born in 1818 to assist, as head of the German military mission, in the reorganization of the Ottoman army. He has been an indefatigable worker in that capacity for many years. He is the son of the Sultan's troops in this war may be said to be largely due to the reforms instituted on his advice.

In his conversation with The Associated Press correspondent, Liman Pacha outlined briefly the course which military events on the peninsula had taken since the landing in the last week of April.

"The fortifications (the interview occurred on June 11th) the Allies have done little beside losing round steadily," said the commander.

"The Turkish offensive collapsed as soon as we were able to counteract their tactics. It must be borne in mind that this happened despite a superiority in artillery that left our own arm of that character no doubt. For many days and nights the Allied ships bombarded and searched every part of the peninsula with an artillery fire as severe and incessant as, on the whole, we have been able to inflict on the British and French troops. I will say that the moral effect of a heavy bombardment is not as lasting in the case of British troops, as it is in the case of our own. Our brave Ottoman soldiers are not easily frightened by noise, owing to their splendid nerves—and this is a war of nerves, a war in which strong nerves mean victory."

Later in the day the correspondent was given a letter by Liman Pacha in which all commanders at the front were requested to permit the use of the Turkish flag on the peninsula.

On the following day, June 12th, the position at Ari Burnu was visited.

But in the Aegean sea two British cruisers were sighted when the tide to Ari Burnu began. Since 5:30 a. m. they had kept up a rather severe bombardment of certain parts of the peninsula. Passing the point of the peninsula, the British cruisers were seen without observers, as a waste of ammunition. The fire of the cruisers was purely "chance" work. No airplane or capital ship was visible in the open and on the wheat fields. Ninety were counted and the result achieved is represented by zero.

The bombardment continued 7 a. m. a little later the Ari Burnu position was reached, and the journey covered ground formerly occupied by the British troops, which at Ari Burnu are exclusively the property of Australia and New Zealand.

Trenches Dug.
The center of the British position is Ari Burnu, or Cape Ari. Here a long outer trench has been dug, and inside another trench has been established a second line of defense, consisting of two short sections. Back of the southernmost of these sections is another trench, and a third trench as a support to an artillery position located on the summit of Cape Ari itself.

This may be called the center of the British position, though the left flank of the British consists of a single short trench on a hill about 400 yards north of the extreme point of the northern sector.

The British right flank, or southern series of entrenchments, is located on the southeast of the Korkor-Doreli creek and follows the course of an advanced trench and two supporting trenches.

With Ari Burnu as pivot, the British position is crescent-shaped, about 2300 yards long from north to south, and 1100 yards wide in a line drawn across the middle. There is a small spring on it, and most of the water needed by the British troops has to be brought from the adjacent islands.

The Turkish trenches are in one case only two yards from the British trench. At another point the trenches of the opposing forces are only ten yards apart. Constant sniping by the Turkish forces has been going on in this condition. Already the British trenches have been blown up by the Turks in three places. Hand grenades and large bombs thrown by a Turkish force have been seen in the trench of the former had failed to explode, and was the subject of study of some Turkish officers.

About noon Essad Pacha, commander of the third army, and during the Turkish attack, a defender of Janina was met by the correspondent. General Essad is a man of medium height, slightly gray about the temples, of dignified, military appearance, and courteous demeanor.

The situation here, at Ari Burnu and Sid-el-Bahr, is very favorable, said. "The British and French have been obliged to assume the defensive, which, I should say, is not what they landed for. I hope to get them out before long. The Allies have come to respect the bayonets of our soldiers."

Charges of Turks.
Essad Pacha then recounted what some of the Turkish prisoners thought of the mighty bayonet charges by the Turks. Most of them did not like the experience.

"I admit there is something uncanny in men rushing a trench silently with bayonets fixed on their rifles, a stimulating effect at times, while its absence acts in an opposite direction," he said.

The afternoon was made interesting by a visit from a British airplane which dropped three large bombs.

Throughout the day the sniping from both trenches continued. A tank attacked the British left flank and the British replied by taking a pot shot at some part of the opposing trenches. The British pieces on land did not reply for some time, but British or German men-of-war could be seen near Kaba Tepe, their former base.

"BUCK" HUNTER ON RACING PROSPECTS FOR PRESENT MEET

Calls Field of Entries the Finest That Will Be Assembled in Wisconsin This Season.

(By "Buck" C. E. Hunter.)
The people of Janesville and vicinity will be treated to one of the finest race meetings this week that will probably be staged in Wisconsin this coming season. With the number of grand horses that are entered, it is evident that the races will be worth coming to see. There has been a great deal of talk and small bets made on the free-for-all pace.

In this class we have the kind of the half mile track. Knight of Strathmore, owned by George Blaine, Monroe, Wisconsin; Minnie Chalmers, 2:04 1/2, owned and driven by James McElroy, Hutchinson, Kansas; Mischief, owned by F. Pigott, Winnipeg, Manitoba; J. O. owner, J. C. McKenzie, driven by Charles Dean, of Palatine, Illinois; George W. Newton, 2:05 1/2, driven by C. Sills; Hawkey, Bessie Woodhead, driven by Frank Nohlecheck, Liberty, Patch, 2:06, driven by Mr. Anderson of the International 155 Farm.

With this class of pacers looks on paper like the people that will be well repaid for their time. In the 2:30 trot, there will be at least thirty starters. This class will probably be divided into two sections, as it would be an impossibility to start the large number on the half mile track. This particular race will show up some good green horses. Another class, trained in and about home, have been in the 2:25 pace, another classy bunch of green pacers will face the starter, and more than likely this race will have to be divided into two sections.

In the 2:12 pace, a race that has always proved as much interest as the free-for-all class, we have the usual large entry which goes to show that this class of pacers are always looked upon for a good race. In the three-year-old trotting class, we have more entries this year than in previous years. On the whole, a particular that will be watched with a great deal of interest, will be "Sweet Pay" today. This filly in her two-year-old class, started at Beloit, winning a two-year-old class with ease. Two days later, her owner gave an exhibition in 2:24. While there are several other fast colts in this race, it looks like "Sweet Pay" today had the call.

In the two-year-old pacing event of fourteen entries there will probably be at least eight starters, and in this class there are some of the highest class colts in the country. Colt racing is becoming more popular each year, and the breeders are encouraged by being given more money to race these colts, as it only goes to show that breeders are anxious to race, for we have colts entered from Maine to California.

The 2:15 trot will be watched with a great deal of interest. As there will be Red Band, Peter Chin, Donlin Lady, Hokola, Kissinee and the others that start, that will be trying every heat and race. The colts have met here in competition two years ago and a renewal of their previous battles will be some exciting event. George Cost of Chicago will drive Donlin Lady in this class, and the people will have an opportunity of seeing the Millionaire Theatrical man in his summer post time.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

Jack Britton will make weight for Johnny Dundee when he meets the New York merchant August 20 at New York. Dan Morgan, who handles Britton, made this statement: "Britton will have little trouble making weight for Dundee. Jack isn't as heavy as he is reported, and he is in better shape right now than the champion. If he is successful against Dundee and also against Johnny Griffiths, whom he boxes in Canton Labor day, I'll go after Walsh and make the champion to give Jack a fight for the title. And, if Britton does succeed in making 135 ringside without weakening himself, and hands Dundee and Griffiths a lesson, the people will watch his step, for this Britton is just about the class of the lightweight division today."

Cincinnati reports have it that the public schools of Garry Harrmannville are to provide a course of instruction in the art of umpiring. Whether this is due to the plaints of Fielder Jones and John McGraw is not known, but both have said that the decisions rendered on baseball fields this year are the worst ever—and then some. Billy Hart and Billy Casper will be the professors in charge of classes and diplomas attesting eagle eye discernment may be expected.

There are not sixteen ball players in the major leagues today who live cleaner lives and keep themselves in better condition mentally and physically to do their work on the diamond than the sixteen umpires do. There may be sixteen players who conduct themselves as cleanly as do the umpires during a season, but not more. Umpiring is a hard job, and many ball players could lead accurately or bat successfully with half the crowd riding them half the time? Isn't the standard of sportsmanship in baseball lower than in any other sport?

More stolen bases could be negotiated and fewer base runners would be caught. Clarence Rowland, White Sox pilot, says, if base runners kept their eyes on the pitcher's feet, "Runners should be off with the motion of the pitcher," he says. "And when watching the pitcher to get his start, the runner should keep his eyes glued on the pitcher's feet. Most runners watch his hand or his face."

NOTICE TO LAY SIDEWALK.
To the owner of lot 1 and North 9 1/2 ft 2 in block 15, Palmer & Sutherland addition to the City of Janesville, Rock County, Wisconsin: You are hereby notified to build a standard sidewalk in front of your said lot, and upon south side Holmes street, forthwith, and that if you fail to complete the same within twenty days after the service upon you of this notice, the work will be done by the city, and the expense thereof charged to and levied upon such lot as special tax.
